- Peace offering expressed the benefits of taking the sacrifice into one's life. – Jesus' sacrifice on the cross only benefits those who believe and accept Him into their lives. John 3:16.

- Sin offering expressed that “Life is in the Blood”. Jesus’ sacrifice points out that eternal life can only be found through the blood of Jesus.

Selling their possessions and goods, they gave to anyone as he had need. Every day they continued to meet together in the temple courts. Peace Offering – “To Make up, to supply what is wanting, to pay a recompense”

An expression on the part of the offerer of his peace with God and of his thankfulness to Him for His many blessings.

Christians should be the most cheerful and happy people that live. They may have the consciousness that God is their father and their everlasting friend. But many professed Christians do not correctly represent the Christian religion. They appear gloomy, as if under a cloud. They often speak of the great sacrifices they have made to become Christians.

They appeal to those who have not accepted Christ, representing by their own example and conversation that they must give up everything which would make life pleasant and joyful. They throw a pall of darkness over the blessed Christian hope

The impression is given that God's requirements are a burden even to the willing soul, and that everything that would give pleasure, or that would delight the taste, must be sacrificed.
